

Little Sheep Learning

It's March already, hopefully you had good fun playing in the recent snow. We took the day off and were busy building snow people in our garden and used the opportunity to talk about the weather and our toddler has learnt all about how snow melts! Look out for our new weather resources coming soon at Little Sheep Learning and related articles on our blog. March includes World Book Day (1st March), and the move into British Summer Time on 24th March.

To celebrate World Book Day we have a Big Book Sale – with savings of 33% on our children's books for the whole of March – hurry offers only available whilst stocks last (and end on 31st March). Don't forget on 24th March we have the clocks changing forward – we have a range of different items for teaching the time including teaching clocks, games, and books if you want use this opportunity to start teaching your little ones about the time.

We have one new product this month - a NEW Visual Perception Skills book. We are pleased to be stocking this fantastic resource which is written by the same authors as the popular Cutting Skills and Fine Motor Skills book. This fully photocopiable book contains over 40 illustrated activities to improve the visual perception skills which are vital in effectively accessing the learning environment. It features tasks that are sorted into topics and cover a range of visual skills such as visual discrimination, matching, size grading, figure ground perception and recall.

Do you have any suggestions for improving Little Sheep Learning or our newsletter? We're always trying to improve our services, so why not email us with your suggestions. You can find more useful resources / news in our blog too.

Elaine

Recommended Sites

Little Sheep Learning would like to recommend the following sites:

Mumszone Parents Forum - A friendly online parenting community.
Treehugger Mums – a website written by mums for mums and jam-packed with pregnancy and parenting related information, articles and shopping.

Little Sheep Learning

The best teaching and learning resources